

I'm writing to protest proposed changes to FCC regulations that would permit a company to own both a television station and a newspaper in the same town. There is no public interest served by increasing the already high concentration of media ownership, particularly when that could result in greatly reducing the number of news sources in a city.

best,

Bruce Dodds